1. Summary of the Requirement

The BC First Nations Health Authority (FNHA) is the first province-wide health authority of its kind in Canada. FNHA aims to reform the way health care is delivered to BC First Nations and help improve health and wellbeing.

This FNHA has taken over the administration of federal health programs and services previously delivered by Health Canada's First Nations Inuit Health Branch – Pacific Region. FNHA has a broad mandate to work with the province and First Nations to improve health services and address service gaps through new partnerships, closer collaboration, and health systems innovation.

Our vision is that all First Nations and Aboriginal people in BC, no matter where they live, are supported in achieving and maintaining mental wellness in ways that respects their customs, values and beliefs.

FNHA requires contractor to provide support in the creation of a Mental Health & Wellness framework & implementation plan that supports the development of a phased approach to complement regionalization and the identification of a clinical/specialist infrastructure situated in the FNHA home offices.

The terms and conditions applicable to this RFP are identified in Appendix A – Definitions and Administrative Requirements. Submission of a proposal in response to this RFP indicates acceptance of all terms and conditions that are included in Appendix A, and any addenda subsequently issued by the FNHA. Provisions in proposals that contradict any of the terms of this RFP will be as if not written and do not exist.

2. Background, Objectives and Scope

Mental health and wellness are priorities for many BC First Nations. While challenges vary from community to community, there are certain key contributing factors. Some include:

- Colonization and assimilation
- Systemic discrimination and racism
- Child Apprehension
- Land dispossession
- Loss of tradition, language and culture
- The legacy of residential schools
- Intergenerational trauma and its effects

Mental Health and Wellness means a lot more than the absence of mental illness – it takes in all areas of a person's life. Mental wellness is the presence of factors that promote and maintain physical, mental, emotional and spiritual balance.

First Nations Communities have been working to address mental health issues and restore balance. The FNHA supports this wellness approach – and recognizes the rich and diverse assets within communities and regions and the many promising and successful practices undertaken to date.

Some of the factors that we know promote wellness in communities include:

- Self-governance
- Stewardship of ancestral lands
- Presence of cultural services
- Control of the education system
- Control of health services
- Control of emergency response services

Request for Proposals – Mental Health & Wellness Service Model

When it comes to mental wellness, BC First Nations deserve the best care and support services. That's why FNHA works with communities to deliver programs and services - such as treatment/healing centres, counselling and crisis lines - and with partners across the province to address service gaps. And change is happening. Wellness indicators continue to improve, showing the strength and resilience of First Nations and Aboriginal people.

Our vision is that all First Nations and Aboriginal people in BC, no matter where they live, are supported in achieving and maintaining mental wellness in ways that respects their customs, values and beliefs.

FNHA requires a contractor to provide support in the creation of a Mental Health & Wellness service model that supports the development of a phased approach to complement regionalization and the identification of a clinical/specialist infrastructure.

Appendix A – Overview of the FNHA

The First Nations Health Authority

The first and only provincial First Nations Health Authority in Canada. Transforming health services for First Nations and Aboriginal people in BC.

Why a First Nations Health Authority?

Statistically significant health disparities exist for First Nations people in BC and across Canada with health outcomes that consistently lag behind those of other Canadians. The First Nations Health Authority aims to reform the way health care is delivered to BC First Nations to close these gaps and improve health and wellbeing.

A New Relationship with our Partners

BC First Nations, the Province of BC, and the Government of Canada have all determined that First Nations health disparities are no longer acceptable. A New Relationship between these Tripartite Partners was forged and a series of precedent-setting agreements led to the creation of a First Nations Health Authority. The FNHA is mandated by two health agreements (the Transformative Change Accord: First Nations Health Plan [2006], and the Tripartite First Nations Health Plan [2007] – collectively “the Health Plans”), the BC Tripartite Framework Agreement on First Nation Health Governance [2011] and resolutions at the annual Gathering Wisdom events and the Framework Agreement.

In 2013, the First Nations Health Authority assumed responsibility for the design and delivery of health programs and services for BC First Nations formerly delivered by Health Canada’s First Nations Inuit Health Branch – Pacific Region. The FNHA has a broad mandate to improve health services for BC First Nations through new partnerships, closer collaboration, and health systems innovation.

Making History Today and Tomorrow

As the First Nations Health Authority has assumed responsibility for the historic transfer of programs, resources, assets, staff, and responsibilities, we are developing an organization that reflects First Nations culture and philosophy. Establishing a strong foundation prepares us to innovate, transform, and redesign health service delivery with guidance from BC First Nations in the coming years.

Responsive, Visionary, Transformative

The First Nations Health Authority is part of a unique health governance structure that includes political representation and advocacy through the First Nations Health Council, and technical support and capacity development through the First Nations Health Directors Association. Collectively, this First Nations health governing structure works in partnership with BC First Nations to achieve our shared vision.

The mandate of the FNHA is to:

- Plan, design, manage, deliver and fund the delivery of First Nations Health Programs in British Columbia;
- Receive federal, provincial and other health funding for or to support the planning, design, management and delivery of First Nations Health Programs and to carry out other health and wellness related functions;
- Collaborate with the BC Ministry of Health and BC Health Authorities to coordinate and integrate their respective health programs and services to achieve better health outcomes for First Nations in British Columbia;
- Incorporate and promote First Nations knowledge, beliefs, values, practices, medicines and models of health and healing into the First Nations Health Programs, recognizing that these may be reflected differently in different regions of BC;

Request for Proposals – Mental Health & Wellness Service Model

- Be constituted with good governance, accountability, transparency and openness standards;
- Establish standards for First Nations Health Programs that meet or exceed generally accepted standards;
- Collect and maintain clinical information and patient records and develop protocols with the BC Ministry of Health and the BC Health Authorities for sharing of patient records and patient information, consistent with law;
- Over time, modify and redesign health programs and services that replace Federal Health Programs through a collaborative and transparent process with BC First Nations to better meet health and wellness needs;
- Design and implement mechanisms to engage BC First Nations with regard to community interests and health care needs;
- Enhance collaboration among First Nations Health Providers and other health providers to address economies of scale service delivery issues to improve efficiencies and access to health care;
- Carry out research and policy development in the area of First Nations health and wellness;
- The FNHA may undertake other functions, roles and responsibilities connected to health and wellness of First Nations and other aboriginal people in BC.

The FNHA is governed by a nine member Board of Directors who collectively brings years of experience in First Nations health, community development, financial management and political expertise at all levels of government. The Board provides leadership and oversight for all corporate activities of the FNHA.

The FNHA was created in conjunction with the First Nations Health Council, providing support services while the political consensus was being built among BC First Nations. As a result, the FNHA website – <http://www.fnha.ca> uses the FNHC name. For more information please visit the website or contact us at: info@fnha.ca.
