

"I've lost friends and family to overdose. I want to do my part to keep people alive."

– Melanie, Saddle Lake Cree Nation

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Harm reduction sites and services are open,
safe and expanding to more locations in BC.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

“We need bigger conversations about how to save lives from overdose.”

– Sekani, Dakelth First Nation

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Harm reduction sites and services are open,
safe and expanding to more locations in BC.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

“Know the source of your comfort and use it safely.
That’s harm reduction.”

– Ken, Yale First Nation

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Harm reduction sites and services are open,
safe and expanding to more locations in BC.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

A portrait of a woman with short black hair and bangs, wearing a black top and red beaded earrings. She is looking slightly to the right with a calm expression. The background is a soft-focus green.

“Before you judge, look at what’s caused the addiction.”

– Eva, Thunderchild First Nation

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Harm reduction sites and services are open,
safe and expanding to more locations in BC.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

“When your friends
drop beside you, be sure naloxone is close by.”

– Ken, Yale First Nation

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Using drugs alone is dangerous. Using with someone else is safer, even during COVID-19.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

"I grew up surrounded by addiction and lost people who were close to me."

– Lisa, Leq'á:mel First Nation

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Using drugs alone is dangerous. Using with someone else is safer, even during COVID-19.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

“Don’t be afraid to ask for help with your addiction.
That’s what’s going to save your life.”

– Candice, Dene and Cree Nation

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Ask your healthcare provider or support network about safer alternatives to toxic drugs.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

“Culture saved my life. It was the missing link and it helps me on my journey in sobriety and spiritually in life.”

– Juanita, Cree and Dene Treaty 6 Territory

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Ask your healthcare provider or support network about safer alternatives to toxic drugs.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

A portrait of a middle-aged man with short, graying hair and glasses. He is wearing a red button-down shirt over a black shirt. He is looking directly at the camera with a slight smile. The background is a blurred green, suggesting foliage.

“While healing from drug use I learned that I don’t have to suffer. I don’t have to carry that pain.”

– Raymond, Cherokee

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Support is available now. Ask your support network or healthcare provider about your options.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

“What helped in my healing journey was looking up to other Indigenous people.”

– Saige, Lutselk’e Dene Nation

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Support is available now. Ask your support network or healthcare provider about your options.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

“If you come from a life of addiction, you know the importance of trust.”

– Eva, Thunderchild First Nation

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Support is available now. Ask your support network or healthcare provider about your options.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

“To be a safe person to talk to, share some of your own life experiences. Talk about what’s helped you.”

– Melanie, Saddle Lake Cree Nation

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Support is available now. Ask your support network or healthcare provider about your options.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness

“If your loved one is using drugs, set boundaries and stick to them
– but also be there when they are ready to move on.”

– Lisa, Leq’á:mel First Nation

Increase the Support.
Reduce the Harm.

Support is available now. Ask your support
network or healthcare provider about your options.

FNHA.ca/HarmReduction

First Nations Health Authority
Health through wellness